From the NEW-YORK GAZETTE.

the FREEHOLDERS, FREEMEN, and INHABITANTS of the Colony of New-York; and to all the Friends of LIBERTY in North-America.

FIVE years are now elapſed ſince the American preſs has been boldly employed in aſſerting the right of this country, to an exemption from Britiſh taxation: Nor can a ſingle inſtance be aſſigned in any of the colonies, of an attempt to reſtrain it, or impriſon any of the numerous writers in this glorious cauſe, 'till Mr. Colden and his Council, thought fit to take up Mr. Parker, the Printer of the New-York Gazette, and to commit me to the common gaol; from whence I beg leave, by the advice of many of the friends of liberty, to addreſs you.

That the impartial public, to whom I muſt chearfully appeal, may be informed of this firſt ſtep againſt me, by thoſe in power; and tho' a perſon of my humble ſtation, and ſo unequal to a combat with men in authority, muſt neceſſarily foreſee numerous difficulties, and perhaps ſuffer private ruin in the end; yet as I truſt in God, that he will preſerve this country from ſlavery, and as I was early in ſentiment oppoſed to the deteſtable Stamp-Act and as far as I know my own heart upon true principles of patriotiſm) I am willing to RISK ALL, and ſhall think the deſtruction of my family, and the loſs even of my life, trifling ſacrifices, if I can be in the leaſt DEGREE ſerviceable to the common cauſe of theſe diſtreſſed branches of the empire.

Every body knows that the firſt ſtatute to amend the mutiny act, which paſſed in 1765, authoriſed the Governor and Council to appoint a barrack maſter, who was to furniſh the army with certain neceſſaries; and enacted that the province ſhould reimburſe his expences, and for that purpoſe money ſhould be raiſed in ſuch manner as the public charges for the province reſpectively are raiſed.

This act alarmed the whole continent, as it evidently was deſigned to ſupport a ſtanding army, while we were contending againſt the Stamp-Act; nor could any man rationally draw a line of diſtinction between a law impoſing a direct tax, and one obliging us to impoſe it upon ourſelves.

Embarraſſed as we were in the beginning, by a thouſand difficulties, it was then thought beſt in this province, to contribute to the army, and the whole amount of our gifts for this purpoſe, ſince the year 1765, now exceeds the ſum of Fourteen Thouſand Pounds; tho' to the honour of our former aſſemblies, it muſt be remembered, that they have remonſtrated againſt the contributions, and made ſuch reluctant compliances, as diſcovered an attachment to the American principle; and that they ſhunned as much as poſſible, a formal recognition of the mutiny act.

But whatever reaſons there were for theſe aids formerly, ſurely they were inapplicable to the ſtate of the colony, at the time Mr. Colden convened his aſſembly on the 21ſt of November laſt; when the former gifts were made, we know not that there was a ſingle colony on the continent, that would have conſpired with us in a refuſal. Now we know that Boſton and Carolina had ventured to diſobey the mutiny act; rightly arguing, that a conformity was NOT ONLY a confeſſion of authority in the parliament to tax this country, but a tacit approbation of the revenue acts, ſo diſtreſſing to our trade, and unfriendly to liberty; for as thoſe acts impoſed duties upon the pretect of protecting, defending and ſupporting the colonies, all aids for the troops could be conſidered in no other light, than that of a ſupply for the deficiency of thoſe funds.

At the worſt we had nothing more to fear than our neighbours, and had every thing to hope from the embarraſſments of adminiſtration, on account of the domeſtic troubles in England, and the univerſal agreement of our own merchants, to break off the commercial intercourſe, 'till America was relieved. We might then alſo conclude from the circular letter of the ſecretary of ſtate, promiſing a repeal of the duties upon paper, paint and glaſs, that the Miniſtry were giving way to our complaints, and it became us to follow them up, and the rather becauſe the promiſed relief was a trifle; and the unforeſeen demands from Ruſſia, ſo much enervated the non-importation agreement, that its continuance muſt be longer than we expected, when that bolt was lanced.

We had beſides been ſpectators of unuſual ſeverity to our Boſton neighbours, and felt a loud call to animation, by the miſeries of a people, ſuffering for the common cauſe: And how could we avoid joining our friends in parliament, in teſtifying an abhorrence of the miniſterial deſpotiſm, in ordering troops to awe that colony into compliances unfriendly to liberty, and deſtructive of their charter privileges?

Every motive therefore of gratitude and intereſt conſpired to induce us to ſtand firm, and maintain an unbroken bond of union with the other provinces, that a deep impreſſion might be made upon the parliament now ſitting, and to refuſe any further aid to the army, as the only arrow left in our quiver, until the revenue and mutiny acts were repealed.

The poverty of the colony--------a poverty occaſioned by the reſtrictions upon our trade, (even ſuppoſing the point of taxation out of the queſtion) was an invincible argument alſo for refuſing unneceſſary aids. It was known that the province treaſury was exhauſted, that all our funds will by the 1ſt of January, 1771, fall near 4000l. ſhort of our diſburſements before September next; that a general tax muſt ſoon take place, to the ruin of the poor; that ſeveral counties are beſides in arrear for former taxes; and that the city of New-York alone, muſt now raiſe above 8000l. for deficiencies, beſides 3000l. for the poor tax, and 1600l. more for the lamps and night watch.

Add to all this, that proportionate to our proſpect of being relieved with reſpect to the Revenue Acts, and our trade, ſhould have been our zeal for a redemption from the mutiny act; for beſides its repugnancy to the grand principle, we have been contending for, we are not able to bear that burthen for ſupporting the American army any longer: And would not the enemies of our liberty, afterwards have urged our compliance now, as a reaſon for its continuance; and retorted with ſome force, that this was the juncture, for holding up all our grievances to parliament.

Theſe were ſome of the reaſons that inſpired a general expectation, that our aſſembly would have followed the example of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay and South-Carolina, and ſo many worthy members were of the ſame ſentiments, that the vote for another abſolute gift was carried only by one voice.

It was nevertheleſs known in the city of New-York, that ſome people were for granting the arrearage, which would have been a compliance with the mutiny act; and as I underſtood, it had been agreed in the ſpring ſeſſion, to withhold any further donations of this kind, and to give the 1800l. at that time, merely to ſhew that the ſtatute for ſuſpending our colony legiſlation, which was then become abſolete, had not excited the former aids, upon ſuppoſition of its validity as a law. I attended the Houſe almoſt daily from the 22d of November to the 15th of December, to learn upon what principles any motion for this purpoſe could be ſupported.

That was the day this important matter was to come on; but from its peculiar delicacy, Mr. Cruger, the Speaker, did not take the chair for ſeveral hours after the members came in, and the doors could not be opened till he did. I was told by a member, that the debates ran high, and that great pains were taken to come, if poſſible, to a concluſion, without a public diviſion of the Houſe. A verbal meſſage at the ſame time was ſent to the Govetnor, for information, as to his willingneſs to paſs a bill for an emiſſion of paper money, in caſe the houſe would conſent to one for the troops; and when the members returned from the fort, the doors were thrown open, and Capt. De Lancey ſoon after broke the ice, upon this grand and momentous concern, in the manner appearing in the votes of that day.

In two days after appeared in public the paper for which I am now impriſoned: The aſſembly inſerted it in their journals, declared it a libel, and voted 100l. for a diſcovery of the author. Mr. Colden and his Council alſo proclaimed the reward. Whether it is a libel or not, or how far I am anſwerable for it, if it is, are important points, which a jury of my neighbours (who, according to our glorious conſtitution, are to be my triers) will in due time conſider: And ſuppoſing it to amount to what the crown Lawyers call a libel, another grand queſtion will ariſe, whether conſidering its import and tendency, its conſequences, the aim of the author, his principles, the virtuous jealouſy of the times, the parliamentary claims, and their actual ſeſſion at this juncture, how far it conſiſts with the common weal of the colonies, to ſearch for and attach the author, whoever he is? This queſtion I ſhall leave to be ſettled by all the friends of America: And I truſt there are many thouſands who will ſpeak out, regardleſs of the frowns of our enemies on both ſides of the water.

Whether this paper influenced any member of the aſſembly, I do not preſume to determine. The fact is, that the vote for 2000 l. to the troops ſoon afterwards paſſed into a law, providing for neceſſaries to accrue after the firſt of January laſt, and that the deficiency demanded by Mr. Colden, as arrears (amounting to upwards of 1000l.) were left unpaid; for which alone, had there been a proviſion, the compliance with the mutiny act would have been formal and complete. But concerning the origin and progreſs of this bill, I ſhall have occaſion hereafter to publiſh ſome anecdotes of a very ſingular nature, and will at preſent relieve the patience of the public, after a ſhort account of the manner in which I became deprived of my liberty.

It is ſuppoſed on good grounds, that one CUMMINS, a young ſtripling, from Cork, then a journeyman to James Parker, one of the Printers of this city, but afterwards diſcharged for bad behaviour, allured by the proferred reward, lodged a complaint againſt him as the Printer of the above-mentioned paper: For on Wedneſday the 7th inſtant, the Sheriff took him into cuſtody on a warrrant iſſued by his Honour the Chief-Juſtice, in which, as I am informed, he was charged as the Printer of that paper, and made amenable before the Lieutenant Governor and Council, to be examined concerning the premiſes. This proceſs was in all things ſtrictly executed. While he was detained in a courſe of examination in the Fort, before the Lieut. Governor and the Council, the Sheriff returned to Mr. Parker's houſe, and took all his apprentices into cuſtody, and immediately conducted them to the Fort. Upon their entrance, their Maſter, who had not the leaſt opportunity of ſeeing them after he was arreſted, was ordered into another apartment, under the cuſtody of the Sheriff, and by that means was abſent at their examination. The eldeſt, as he declares, was firſt examined, and the paper in queſtion being produced to him, he was aſked whether he had ſeen it before? To which he anſwered, that he had frequently ſeen it, as many others had, for that printed copies of it had been diſperſed about the city: He further alledges, that tho' repeatedly preſſed to declare whether it was printed at his Maſter's office, he refuſed to make any ſuch declaration; but that at length being threatened with a commitment, he confeſſed that it was printed by Mr. Parker, and at the ſame time aſſured the Lieut. Governor and Council, that he was ignorant of the author. The younger apprentices, after his example, charged the printing of the paper on their Maſter; after which they were all diſmiſſed. Further proof being thus procured againſt Mr. Parker, he was again brought before the Lieut. Governor and the Council, and re-examined on the ſubject; and tho' he repeatedly refuſed to diſcover the author, yet being at length wrought upon by threats that application would be made to his ſuperiors, to procure his diſmiſſion from his employment in the Poſt-Office, and that he muſt either give bail or be committed, unleſs he would diſcover the author; and not having had it in his power to conſult with the publiſher about an indemnification from him, he reſolved to make the diſcovery, provided he could procure the engagement of the Government, that he ſhould not be proſecuted. This engagement his Honour and the Council, after ſome conſideration, thought proper to make. Upon which he ſubmitted to an examination on oath, and then was diſcharged on his ſingle recognizance, to appear and give evidence againſt the perſon whom he charged as the publiſher of the paper.--------Early the next morning the ſheriff came to my houſe and took me into cuſtody, on a bench warrant iſſued by his Honour the Chief-Juſtice, wherein I was charged with cauſing the paper to be printed, which in the warrant is ſaid to be a falſe, ſeditious and infamous libel; and the Sheriff according to the command of the precept, conducted me to the Chief-Juſtice's chamber, to be examined concerning the premiſes, and to be dealt with according to law. Tho' no queſtions were put to me upon my being preſented to the Chief-Juſtice, yet immediately on my entrance into his chamber, his Honour ſaid to me, "So you have brought yourſelf into a pretty ſcrape."

To which I replied, "May it pleaſe your Honour, that muſt "be judged of by my peers." He then told me, "that there "was full proof, that I was the author or publiſher of the above-"mentioned paper," which he called a falſe, vile, and ſcandalous libel. I replied again, "this muſt alſo be tried by my peers."

His Honour thereupon informed me, that I muſt either give bail or go to goal. I anſwered, "Sir, I will give no bail." He was then pleaſed to order the Sheriff to take me to goal, and made out a mittimus, charging me as the author and publiſher of a "certain falſe, ſcandalous, ſeditious, and infamous paper, "addreſſed, directed, to the betrayed inhabitants of the city "and colony of New-York, and ſubſcribed a ſon of liberty; "and commanding the Sheriff therewith to receive me, and "ſafely keep me in goal, until I ſhall thence be delivered by due "courſe of law."

The purport of the paper for which I am impriſoned is as follows. That while this unfortunate country has for ſeveral years paſt been ſtriving under many diſadvantages to preſerve its freedom; and the merchants of this city, and the capital towns on the continent, have chearfully ſacrificed their private intereſt to the public good, rather than promote the deſigns of the enemies of our happy conſtitution, it was not to be expected that we ſhould contribute to the ſupport of the troops, thereby facilitating the deſigns of the miniſtry, and acknowledging our approbation of the revenue acts. That ſuch a conduct would implicitly cenſure the patriotic denial of the Boſtonians and Carolinians, and invigorate the drooping ſpirits of the promoters of that unpopular mode of taxation; that highly contradictory would be our conduct in lately voting public thanks to the merchants, for entering into the non-importation agreement, 'till the repeal of the revenue acts, and now contradicting it, by countenancing Britiſh acts, and complying with miniſterial requiſitions, utterly incompatible with freedom. That what could render ſuch a benevolence the more inglorious, was that the money required, was to be applied to the ſupport of troops, ever dangerous to a free ſtate; and thence the perpetual TERROR of all who prize our EXCELLENT---conſtitution. Nor that inſtances were wanting of the illegal interpoſitions of the military, to ſcreen the enemies of the public, in their open attempts to baffle the only practicable expedient to ſecure our liberty. That certainly dangerous were all precedents of making grants to the Crown; and no time ſo opportune to refuſe ſuch requiſitions as the preſent. That every overture for procuring the requeſted aids, by promiſing the emiſſion of a paper currency, muſt be inſidious and hollow; it being againſt all probability to expect the royal aſſent to any acts of that import, as directly repugnant to his Majeſty's inſtructions. That EXTRAORDINARY indeed, and boding no good to the common weal, was the late ſudden coalition between politicians who had ſo long been at mortal odds, and even unfavourable to, and deſtructive of the freedom and independency of the Houſe, had been all private cabals between the aſſembly and the other branches of the legiſlature; and upon the whole, adviſing a convention of the people, to take their ſenſe on the important point, and to wait on their members, inſiſting on their oppoſition to the bill, and in caſe of their refuſal, to appoint a committee to draw up a ſtate of the whole matter, and ſend it to the Speakers of the ſeveral Houſes of Aſſembly on the continent, and to the friends of our cauſe in England, and to publiſh it in the news-papers, that the whole world might know our ſentiments on the matter, in the only way our circumſtances would admit.

This is the ſubſtance of the publication, which occaſioned the late keen reſentment againſt the ſuppoſed author, and the reaſon why it ſo acutely ſtings, no man can be at a loſs to determine. And now, my fellow-citizens, and fellow Americans, when the infamous Star-Chamber Doctrine of Libels, has ſo long been exploded in the mother country, I rejoice to think that I may in the leaſt contribute to prevent its appearance in theſe happy regions! Once indeed! it attempted in this land of light and liberty, to rear its baneful ſtandard, and round it flocked the adherents of the very party who now endeavour to re-introduce it. But liberty herſelf, in the form of ZENGER, inſtantly proſtrated the infernal engine, and gained an illuſtrious triumph.----Again do they preſume to introduce that abſurdity of abſurdities; that very quinteſſence and conſummation of all nonſenſe, that it is a crime to ſpeak or write the truth! It is more than their fellow-labourers in deſpotiſm, in the mother country dare to do: Amidſt all the engines, theſe employed to render public villainy triumphant over virtue and law, no miniſter has been ſo preſumptuous, no ſtate artificer ſo audacious, as to violate this palladium of Britiſh freedom.

Whatever public robberies the nation may groan under; whatever venality and corruption a miniſterial jobber may diffuſe thro' the land; whatever inſults may be offered to the freedom of elections, the moſt inſolent tool of arbitrary power has not yet dared to diſpoil them of this diſtinguiſhing, this priceleſs peculiar of the Britiſh conſtitution: For tho' in arbitrary times juries have been led to take the directions of corrupt judges, to find ſpecial verdicts in the caſe of libels; yet no miniſter, with the moſt venal commons at his heels, had ever the aſſurance to move for a ſtatute obliging a jury to pay obedience to ſuch directions; and this in all ſtate proſecutions is the bulwark of Engliſh liberty againſt the deſpotiſm of court favourites. What in Britain no man dare to attempt, let none expect to ſee accompliſhed in America; for tho' there be among us of ſycophants many, and of miſcreants actuated by ſlaviſh principles, and deſtitute of any principles at all, not a few; ſtill of men of ſpirit alſo, of avowed, determined, inflexible friends of liberty, there is a numerous multitude. I therefore rejoice, that on me the trial is to be made, I rejoice I am the firſt ſufferer for liberty ſince the commencement of our glorious ſtruggles; and if my ſufferings ſhall in the leaſt conduce to promote the cauſe, I ſhall eſteem my confinement a ſingular felicity, and my very bonds (however I abhor even the momentary loſs of perſonal liberty) glory and triumph. -----The arm of power could not perhaps, have fallen on a ſubject more fearleſs of its menaces, or more reſigned under its moſt rigorous exertion. Let it be tried, let it be fearly tried, whether of public affairs faithfully adminiſtred, and of the Majeſty of the people vilely debaſed, a Britiſh ſubject may not openly -----complain. Let it be tried, be fairly tried, whether freedom of ſpeech and freedom of writing are not the natural effect of the freedom of our excellent conſtitution, and whether on ſuppreſſing that freedom, the conſtitution can poſſibly ſurvive. I ſhould therefore be ſorry that any of my friends ſhould give themſelves the leaſt pain or anxiety on account of my imprifonment; for myſelf I feel none, the cauſe for which I ſuffer is capable of converting thistles into laurels, and transforming a goal into a Paradise. For the many visits I have already received from the friends of liberty of all ranks, I am affected with sincere gratitude, and am The Public's most obedient

From the New Goal in humble Servant,

New-York, Feb. 9, 1770. ALEX. M'DOUGAL.

BOSTON, JANUARY 22.

The friends of liberty in this metropolis, as much applaud the behaviour of the freemen of N. Y--k upon a late supply, as they do detest the conduct of their house of Assembly, and heartily wish they were as happy as we are in having annual Parliaments, and the members who compose those assemblies chose by a majority of the voters in the several towns, whose written votes are received in boxes by the selectmen; as it cannot be known for whom any freeholder votes, no candidate among us either publicly ask or can privately purchase a vote--But where a Representative is chosen for 7 years this mode is more important, as a 7 year purchase must enable a few venal wretches to sell their country.

FEBRUARY 1. We have an authentic account from Nova-Scotia, that the post of Annapolis-Royal, is, by his Majesty's orders, to be entirely avacuated, the officers of the board of ordnance are to repair to England, and the stores of the garrison are to be sent wherever General Gage thinks proper.

Extract of a letter from New-York, dated January 22.

"We are all in confusion in this city,----the soldiers have cut and blowed up liberty-pole, and have caused much trouble between the inhabitants: On Friday last between Burling-Slip and the Fly-market, was an engagement between the inhabitants and the soldiers, where much blood was spilt: One sailor got run through the body, who since died: One man got his scull cut in a most cruel manner,------On Saturday the hall bell rang for an alarm, when was another battle between the inhabitants and the soldiers; but the soldiers met with the rubbers, the chiefest part being sailors, with clubs, to revenge the death of their brother, which they did with courage, and made them all run to their barracks. What will be the end of this God knows!"

NEW-YORK, JANUARY 25.

By the Boston papers, we have an account, that on the 17th instant, there was a meeting of the merchants and principal inhabitants of that place, to consider of the conduct of several who broke through the non-importation agreement, and to determine on some legal measures to prevent the abortion of the said agreement. Some who broke through the non-importation agreement, had been exposed to the public scorn, and they have had their vindications put in the papers, but the chicanery and futility that seems to abound in their defence, can only be matched by the peculiarities so much practised by hypocrites. The meeting was very numerous, but as the business could not be compleated that day, they adjourned to the next, which was the day the last papers we have were printed.

The business of the above meeting not being finished, the committee adjourned from day to day, till Tuesday the 23d. The number of merchants, traders and respectable inhabitants assembled were supposed to be above twelve hundred, the account of their proceedings is too long to be now inserted, nor is a full account yet published. They endeavoured to take the most effectual methods to make those who refused to conform to the general agreement, among which were eight who had signed it, feel the weight of the public resentment, and to secure a strict compliance with the agreement for the future, in which it is hoped they will succeed.

FEBRUARY 5. At the general meeting of the Merchants at Boston the 18th and 19th of last month, it was found by the report of the committee of inspection, that eight houses had broke through their agreement made, in relation to the non-importation of goods,------and that they had been sent to by the meeting, respecting their perfidious and unjustifiable conduct, &c. Of all the eight only one submitted to the reproof, and promised amendment, two others would deliver up their remaining goods; but the other five had either sold off all their effects, or given very unsatisfactory answers.------There had been eight days successive meetings, in one of which a message was sent them from the Governor, advising them such meetings were illegal, and desiring them to desist; but they went on to consult what measures were necessary to take to enforce their agreements, and prevent the success of their opponents; and the names of four of the delinquents were exposed in the papers.

From Freehold, in Monmouth County, in New-Jersey, we learn, that the inhabitants of that county, are so irritated at the lawyers there, that on Tuesday the 23d of January, being the time appointed for holding courts of pleas and general sessions of the peace there, a great number of them assembled in a tumultuous and riotous manner, and absolutely refused to permit one lawyer to come; and the magistrates were so intimidated, that no courts were opened or held there that time.

PHILADELPHIA, FEBRUARY 12.

Captain Ferguson, late from the West-Indies, was committed to Williamsburg Goal on the 24th Ult. being accused of the Murder of three of his Crew, and a Negro Boy of his own, at Sea; for the last of which he is to take his Trial there.

They write from Rhode-Island, that the Woollen and Linen Manufactures go on very rapidly in various Parts of that Colony.
